

Thankfully, I don't live in a city with a station owned by Sinclair. Instead, we have Clear Channel radio -- not sure which is worse.

Probably Sinclair. I am a freelance journalist, and it's deeply frustrating for me to endure the single minded blather that comes from many of the media outlets, both in Denver and around the country. Sinclair's decision to run the anti-Kerry movie so close to the election reiterates that when the regulators back off, extremists take over.

The media ownership rules are out of whack. Please reconsider this issue and vote according to your conscience, not according to those with the loudest speakers and microphones, or the most money.

Thank you.
